BEGIN STRENUOUS CAMPAIGN TO RAISE COLISEUM FUND

Committees Start Work, Expecting to Sell Enough Stock to Build Chautauqua Structure.

OTHER PLANS CONSIDERED

Brilliant Array of Talent, Contracted For Next Year's Assembly is Announced Today.

GRAND OPERA CO. TO BE HERE

Other Musical Organizations And Some of Best Lecturers in United States Are Coming.

A strenuous campaign to raise the money for a monster coliseum in which the chautauqua and other public meetings will be held, was started this morning. The committee in charge of the work plans to sell the stock in the coliseum at twenty-five dollars per share and in this manner they hope to raise enough money to erect the building. The project is assured of success, when it is known that the program committee of the chautauqua has contracted for the whole list of talent for next year's assembly. The program which has just been arranged presents the most formidable array of talent which has ever yet been presented to the residents of Rushville and Rush county. Many were the favorable comments on this year's chautauqua, but the event for next year promises to out-strip any previous attempts. The committee announced the list of talent and the program for next year today.

If a sufficient sum can not be raised on the stock plan to build the coliseum, other plans are laying dormant and will be taken up by the committee in charge. If the sum of four thousand dollars, which it has been decided will be used to erect such a structure, can not be obtained with the present plans, a first night and union meeting project may be pushed through.

The first night plan has met with more favor than any other one plan which has yet been mentioned. The idea has been worked successfully in other cities in paying for new opera houses and other public buildings. It is the general plan to contract for an entertainment of stellar quality, something which has never graced the lyceum platform in Rushville, a celebrity with a reputation for giving high class concerts and then sell the tickets for the concert for a good sum so that enough money could be realized off the entertainment to make a substantial payment on the structure.

A union meeting, the proceeds to pay for a coliseum, has long been considered and it, too, may be used to raise money for a structure of that kind. The ministers of the city have for several winters considered a union meeting and it seems that such a project may be carried out now. Some of the church pastors of the city have agreed that it would be a profitable plan and are in favor of it. Others have not been consulted but it is thought that it will meet with their approval. The money which would be used in erecting a temporary tabernacle, could be used to make a payment on the coliseum.

All of the three plans have been up and considered by the committee in charge of raising funds for the erection of a coliseum. They have started now on the stock plan and expect to raise a considerable amount of money in that manner. Today they received a number of subscriptions for stock and are expecting to meet with greater success tomorrow. They have obtained the services of an automobile and expect to make a flying canvas of all of the various classes of men who are represented in Rushville. It is believed that the announcement of the long array of high class talent for next year's assembly will give the coliseum project such an impetus that it will be successful on the eve of its beginning.

The program committee of the chautauqua has the best selection, arranged in the best manner, which has ever yet been offered the patrons of the annual assembly in this city and county. The event will be held August 6 to 13, inclusive, beginning on Sunday and ending on Sunday. Bishop Edwin Holt Hughes, one of the biggest men in the Methodist church today, will be the drawing card on the first day. He will deliver two lectures, one in the afternoon and one in the evening. Bishop Hughes was formerly president of DePauw University, before he was signally honored by the church and has been heard on other occasions by local people. He needs no introduction to Rushville people.

The Oppello concert company will come Sunday for a three days' engagement and will give a complete concert on Monday evening. The company consists of four men who do quartet work and also have varied instrumental arrangements. They are all soloists of ability and are said to be one of the best musical organizations on the road today.

Monday afternoon and every afternoon during the week will be taken up with course lectures which met with such popular approval with their introduction here this year. Prof. Henrietta Calvin of Purdue University, who gave a series of lectures on "Domestic Science" this year, will be returned for a similar course. Grace Heyingmay will also be here for a series of afternoon course lectures. Her work is especially for children. She narrates child stories with an intensity that makes them real, taking a different story from foreign lands on each day.

Lincoln McConnell, former actor, detective, and now preacher and popular lecturer, will be the attraction for Tuesday. He will give two of his best popular lectures, one in the afternoon and one in the evening. The name of Lincoln McConnell is significant of a large crowd as he has been one of the most popular men who ever graced the local platform. The management is expecting one of the best crowds of the week for his lectures.

Wednesday will be known as Rush county day, when all of the talent will be local people. The big feature of the day will be an address in the afternoon by James E. Watson, who will deliver his popular lecture on the subject, "Ideals." Mr. Watson, who has been giving the lecture at chautauquas all over the middle west and receiving a good sum of money for each time he repeats it, has donated his services to the chautauqua for that day. He has agreed to appear on the program absolutely free of charge if the other local talent will do likewise. He desires that the proceeds of the day go toward a fund to erect a coliseum. Jesse Pugh and his company and other well known local artists have also signified their willingness to appear on the program free of charge.

Thursday afternoon the course lectures will be given as usual and the Hinshaw Grand Opera company will give a full concert in the evening. The grand opera company is conceded to be the best musical organization on the chautauqua platform today, and the management believes that it is striking the heart strings of the local music lovers to bring such a reputed organization here. The company was on at Richmond

ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION

Little Flatrock Christian Church Celebrates Completion of 80th Year by an All Day Service.

BASKET DINNER AT NOON

Many Home Comers Were Present From a Distance—Music Was a Feature.

The eightieth anniversary and home coming of the Little Flatrock Christian church, which is one of the pioneer institutions of christianity in the county, was celebrated yesterday. It was a day of rejoicing for the many scores of people who were present. There was not an individual who attended that did not leave feeling more than ever the need and the power of the church.

The Sunday school services were held at 10:00 a. m., and at this service the Rev. S. J. Corey of Cincinnati, who is secretary of the foreign missionary society, delivered an interesting and helpful talk to the school and its visitors. At 11:00 o'clock the Rev. J. N. Jessup of Little Rock, Ark., who was for several years pastor of the Little Flatrock church, preached a very impressive sermon to the congregation and the home comers on "The Church, Its Purpose and Power."

After the morning service a basket dinner was served on the lawn, which was one that was worth coming miles to partake of. All the various kinds of products raised in Noble township were there in abundance, from fried chicken to angel food cake. There was that hospitality about this spread that is far from explainable, but always feelable.

Among the erstwhile members of the congregation who returned to participate in the festivities of the day were: Mrs. Harriet Gregg of Glenwood; Mr. and Mrs. John Davidson and family of Columbus; Mr. and Mrs. Will Hunt of Treaty; Mr. and Mrs. Homer Bell and daughter, William of Huntington, West Virginia; Mr. and Mrs. Claude Guffin of St. Louis, Mo.; Mrs. A. B. Houze of Kendallville; Mrs. Harriet Hunt of Marion; Mr. and Mrs. John Beaver of Anderson; John H. Morris of Elwood; and Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Frazee of Connorsville.

The feast at noon, of material things, was replaced in the afternoon, by a repast of spiritual food and sacred music. At two o'clock, services were resumed when Rev. Long, who is pastor of the church, appointed George Guffin, one of the pillars of the church as chairman. Mr. Guffin, in his pleasing manner, read a history of the church and then introduced the Rev. Steven J. Corey of Cincinnati; the Rev. Eldon Van-Winkle of Milton; the Rev. R. W. Abberley of this city; the Rev. H. W. Edwards of Clarksburg; the Rev. J. N. Jessup of Little Rock, Ark.; and the Rev. Eugene Lewis of Orange, all of whom delivered talks that were intensely pleasing and laudatory of the pioneer institution of Rush county. The music of the afternoon was furnished by Wagoner's orchestra, Miss Florence Frazee, Miss Marie Clark, Mrs. Charlotte Bell and Miss Georgia Amos.

At the evening service the Rev. Corey delivered a strong sermon on "Foreign Missions and Their Work." After the benediction had been pronounced at the evening service there was not an individual present who did not realize the stability, strength, power and work that Little Flatrock Christian church had accomplished in its four score years of life. This church was the saloon of the pioneers, the arm of strength to their succeeding generations.

IS KILLED IN GAS EXPLOSION

Lafayette Boweman Dies as the Result of Injuries Received in an Accident South of Milroy.

IS HIT IN THE HEAD BY A BRICK

Night Watchman at Milroy Tile and Drain Co. Plant Strikes Match and Gas Ignites.

As the result of an explosion of which he was the principal cause, Lafayette Boweman, twenty-eight years old, a young married man of Williamstown, about two and one-half miles south of Milroy, died yesterday morning at four o'clock. The accident which resulted so disastrously for young Boweman, occurred about nine o'clock Saturday night, when some escaping gas in a tile kiln at the Milroy Tile and Drain company, ignited from a match, which Boweman had lighted to start the fire in the kiln, and caused the fatal explosion.

Boweman was night watchman at the tile plant and was making his usual rounds Saturday night, when he discovered that the fire in one of the big kilns had gone out. He immediately struck a match to start the fire. A considerable amount of escaping gas had collected in the kiln and caused the explosion, which resulted in the destruction of the kiln and the death of the night watchman.

The immediate cause of Boweman's death is believed to be a blow from one of the flying bricks. He was not burned at all, but it is supposed that one of the bricks struck him on the head, causing concussion of the brain.

The report of the explosion sounded all over Williamstown and a crowd soon gathered at the scene of the accident. Boweman was unconscious from the blow. He was picked up and carried to his home and a physician was summoned. It was soon found that the night watchman was suffering with concussion of the brain and then it was only a matter of a few hours until his death came. His body was not mutilated in the least, only a few wounds being inflicted on his head, where flying bricks had hit him. Only one of the wounds was very serious, the one which caused the brain concussion. If Boweman had fallen toward the kiln instead of away from it, it is very probable that he would have been burned to death before help arrived. As it was he was not burned and there were only a few bricks laying around him, most of the kiln being blown in the opposite direction.

The accident is not the first one which Boweman has had since he assumed the duties as nightwatchman of the tile factory. He had a similar experience about one year ago only that it did not result fatally. The accident happened in the same manner as the one Saturday night. A very slight explosion resulted when some escaping gas in one of the kilns ignited after he had lighted a match. He was badly burned then, but nothing serious ever resulted. He was warned by his friends after that to be careful of similar accidents, but he had evidently grown careless by continually being around the plant and his carelessness eventually cost him his life.

The loss to the Milroy Tile and Drain company will be very slight as nothing was damaged except the one kiln which was blown almost to small atoms. The plant is owned by a stock company, of which Nathan and William Arbuckle own the controlling back of the building which was for interest. There are about five holders of stock in the company. A. A. Coffin, who lives in the old Mitchell property in North Main street, just merly occupied by the Brann grocery, is manager of the plant. He took control only a few months ago.

The death of young Boweman came as a blow to the community in which he lived. He has resided in Williamstown for several years and he was highly esteemed by all of the people with whom he was acquainted. He was only twenty-eight years old and had been married but a few years. A widow and a small child survive. The funeral arrangements have not been completed.

COUNTY COUNCIL COMES TOMORROW

Commissioners Awarded Contract

For Morris Highway to Wilk & Co. For $8,750 Today.

ALSO OTHER MINOR BUSINESS

The county commissioners held their regular September meeting in the court house this afternoon. They allowed several claims and transacted several matters of business of minor importance. They awarded the contract for the Charles E. Morris et al highway between Orange and Anderson townships to Wilk & Company of this city for $8,750.00.

The regular annual meeting of the county council will be held in the court house tomorrow. It is then that all of the appropriations for the year are made and when the money to run the county affairs is handed out. All of the county officers have their requisitions ready at that time.

RUSHVILLE TO HAVE WIRELESS STATION

County Commissioners Grant Earl White Permission to Place Apparatus on Court House.

ABLE TO TALK TO NEW YORK

The county commissioners granted permission late this afternoon to Earl White to place the apparatus for a wireless station on the court house. Mr. White and Noley Newkirk have been working on the idea for several months and have practically all of the apparatus for the instrument fitted out. They plan to begin work in a few days and it will not be long until Rushville will be in wireless communication with any point eight hundred miles distant. The instrument to catch the air waves will be placed high up on the court house while wires will be run down to a building near the court house, where the receiving and sending instrument will be located.

When Rushville gets on the wireless map, then the local operators can communicate with New York City. They have planned to get the instrument at least eighty feet in the air on the theory that every ten feet in height is equal to one hundred miles. So if the instrument is eighty feet in the air, they can talk to New York.

Norway has one pharmacy to every 16,000 inhabitants.

LAYED FIRST BRICK.

The first brick ever laid on a street in Rushville was put in place at the northern extremity of Main street, where the pavement will extend, at exactly 9:18 o'clock this morning. The work is progressing fast and the company expects to make good headway now.

HIS ATTEMPTS WERE FUTILE

Burglar Fails to Make Haul at the Parker Home and at the Wolcott Home.

HOUSES STAND SIDE BY SIDE

The Man Was Seen by Mrs. Parker and Also by Mrs. Wolcott.

The burglar, who tried to make a haul at the homes of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Parker and Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Wolcott, was "game" to say the least. Within an hour on last Saturday night he endeavored to enter two homes that stand next to each other in West Fifth street. Mrs. Parker had been down in the city during the evening and had had occasion to order some groceries. About nine o'clock she returned home and hearing a noise in the back of the house started for the kitchen, supposing that it was the grocery boy. When she reached the kitchen she remarked to the man of mistaken identity that he had beat her home. This expression caused the would-be burglar to make a hasty exit. As far as could be learned nothing was missed in the Parker home.

About nine-thirty o'clock Mrs. Wolcott was informed by her sister that there was a man at the window. Mrs. Wolcott tried to dispell her sister's idea by telling her that it was a plant blowing in the wind that stands at the side of the house, but her argument was futile. Further investigation showed it to be a man and Mrs. Wolcott asked him what he wanted and for reply she was told nothing. This caused terror to come over the two women, for Mr. Wolcott, who is a traveling man, was not at home.

Mrs. Wolcott summoned a grocery boy and in his company a search was made of the nearby alleys, but to no avail. She says that the man wore a slouch hat and a light gray coat, but that he ran before she could get a good survey of his features. It is the general opinion that the work at both houses was that of the same man. The police have been notified and they are working on the case.

THROWN FROM RIG, ARM BROKEN

Miss Lenora Wooden Met With Accident Near Fayetteville Last Evening.

WAS DRIVING WITH FRIENDS

Miss Lenora Wooden, eldest daughter of Dr. and Mrs. E. I. Wooden, met with a peculiar yet unfortunate accident while driving with a party of young people near Fayetteville last evening. The party had started home from Mrs. Reed's, where they had taken supper, and while turning their vehicle around in the road, the left wheel of the rig locked, lifting the rig somewhat in the air. Miss Wooden was thrown from the vehicle in some unexplainable manner, alighting on her left arm, which was broken at the wrist. Bravely she endured the pain through the remainder of the drive to this city, where on reaching it, the injured member was set.

Born to the wife of Jesse McCauley, an eight pound boy, who was immediately named Thomas Frances.

A Badge of Honesty

Is printed on the outer wrapper of every bottle of

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

and it is the only medicine for woman's peculiar ailments, sold by druggists, the makers of which feel fully warranted in thus taking the afflicted into their full confidence

The more known about the composition of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription the more confidently will invalid women rely upon it to cure their peculiar weaknesses and derangements. There's no secrecy about its make-up—no deceptive inducements held out to the afflicted. It's simply a good, honest, square-deal medicine with no alcohol, or injurious, habit-forming drugs in its composition. Made wholly from roots. It can do no harm in any condition of woman's organism.

Devised and put up by a physician of vast experience in the treatment of woman's maladies. Its ingredients have the indorsement of leading physicians in all schools of practice.

The "Favorite Prescription" is known everywhere as the standard remedy for diseases of women and has been so regarded for the past 40 years and more.

Accept no secret nostrum in place of "Favorite Prescription"—a medicine OF KNOWN COMPOSITION, with a record of 40 years of cures behind it.

It's foolish and often dangerous to experiment with new or but slightly tested medicines—sometimes urged upon the afflicted as "just as good" or better than "Favorite Prescription." The dishonest dealer sometimes insists that he knows what the proffered substitute is made of, but you don't and it is decidedly for your interest that you should know what you are taking into your stomach and system expecting it to act as a curative. To him its only a difference of profit. Therefore, insist on having Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

DROPPED THEIR LOOT IN HURRY OF FLIGHT

Murderers Who Held Up Paymaster Profited Nothing.

Hudson, N. Y., Sept. 5.—The bandits who murdered young Denton Fowler, assistant treasurer of the Atlas Building Material company, and his negro driver, George Ragsdale, Saturday afternoon, fled through the woods in such haste that they dropped the treasurer's suitcase containing $5,600 in gold, silver and bills. Police Chief James J. Lane and Superintendent Jerry Leonard of the Atlas brickyards stumbled on the bag Sunday while they were beating up the thickets with a party of armed men.

Leonard and Lane found not only the money that Dent Fowler had been hurrying with to the Atlas brickmakers, but within a few steps of where Mr. Fowler and the plucky negro had been shot to death they came upon the weapons the robbers had used in the killing, a Winchester repeating rifle, a shotgun and two revolvers. Searching through the wet bush they picked up the trail of two of the assassins, which led to the brickyard where 150 of the employees had been waiting for Fowler's approach with their three weeks' pay. While Lane's country detectives were skillfully gathering clues from the woods which were telling tales on the robbers, another part of policemen and citizen volunteers under Sergeant Cruise and Policeman Klemmer were finding interesting things less than a quarter of a mile away on the other side of a road where the men were killed. Here and there, leading in exactly the opposite direction from the tracks that Lane and Leonard were nosing, Cruise came upon the prints of hobnailed shoes, impressions deep in the mud and sharply marked on bushes that had been trampled down by rushing feet. Chief Lane is convinced that he can nail the murderers within a few hours. The evidence is such already, he says, that he can almost give their names.

DOWN ON AUTOS

Indiana Farmers Complain That Speeders Are Killing Stock.

Anderson, Ind., Sept. 5.—Farmers along the Indianapolis pike between this city and Pendleton are considering organizing to prevent automobile speeding. Great damage to livestock by motorists has been reported during the last few months. Last week a valuable calf was killed by an automobile, and other farmers report the loss of a hog, a prize turkey, two geese and ten chickens. The farmers say that the autoists raise such a cloud of dust that it is impossible to learn the numbers of the machines, and that they will use drastic measures to put an end to speeding in that vicinity.

Tom Heath's Launch Run Down by Excursion Steamer.

New York, Sept. 5.—A naphtha launch supposed to belong to Thomas Heath of the vaudeville team of McIntyre and Heath, was cut down off Rockaway Point last night by an excursion steamer and three men and four women were thrown into the water. All hands were rescued by the boats lowered from the steamer, and taken to Sheepshead bay. Three of the four women in the party were unconscious when taken from the water. Heath is said to have been running the launch. All of the party were theatrical persons.

Warden Reid's Funeral.

Michigan City, Ind., Sept. 5.—The body of the late warden, James D. Reid, is lying in state at the Reid home this afternoon. The funeral will be held at 10:30 tomorrow, with services conducted by the Rev. O. L. Kiplinger, the prison chaplain. Burial will be made at South Bend.

Lady Tanker Loses.

New York, Sept. 5.—The Countess of Tankerville is the principal victim in an alleged mining scandal which was recently exposed by the postoffice authorities when they arrested William T. Whittemute, a mining stock broker of New York.

HE EXONERATES PARK AND WIFE

Superintendent Children's Home Society Issues Statement.

CHARGES ARE EXAGGERATED

Sumner W. Haynes, State Superintendent of the Indiana Children's Home Society, Visits Home and Denounces Recent Allegations Reflecting on the Keepers, Declaring That Their Work Was Satisfactory.

Indianapolis, Sept. 5.—Denouncing the charges of C. L. Dietz, acting chairman of the executive committee of the Indianapolis Humane Society against the Hadley Children's Home and its matron and superintendent as pure sensationalism, Sumner W. Haynes, state superintendent of the Children's Home Society of Indiana, has issued a statement. He declared the home and the children are in better condition than at any time in the two years he has been connected with them, and almost completely exonerated Superintendent Clyde Park and his wife, the matron of the home, from blame for the cloud that has been cast over the home during the last week.

Mr. Haynes is now at the home, in charge until another superintendent and matron can be appointed, which will be within a few days, he said. Asked why, if Mr. and Mrs. Park are practically blameless in the trouble at the home, he and the society's directors still insist on their discharge, he replied:

"Mrs. Park has felt, since she and her husband were appointed two months ago, that the duties of matron of the home are too arduous for her, and she has desired to resign. I have found conditions at the home entirely satisfactory; statements made regarding cruelty to the children are grossly exaggerated so far as I can ascertain, and, in short, I do not really consider the departure of Mr. and Mrs. Park as a discharge. It is true I was empowered by the directors to take that action, and it is also true they have gone, but I wish it understood their work has been entirely satisfactory and it is because of Mrs. Park's own desire that they are leaving."

Advices from Hendricks county are that the alleged cruelty of Mr. and Mrs. Park to the children will probably be investigated by the Hendricks county grand jury, which will convene next week. It is said Hadley citizens are enraged over the matter and insist, if Mr. Park and his wife are guilty as charged, that they shall be punished.

IT WAS A MISTRIAL

Jury Unable to Agree in Sensational Arson Case.

Mt. Vernon, Ind., Sept. 5.—After being out twenty-five hours the jury in the case of the state vs. John Aldrich, a prominent farmer, charged with burning David L. Weir's store, near here, was discharged. The jury is said to have stood 8 to 4 for conviction.

Intense interest existed throughout the trial, and it is feared trouble, possibly bloodshed, may result from the mistrial. Twelve alleged incendiary fires occurred in the Savah vicinity last winter following the burning of Weir's store. Bloodhounds were brought here and they took a trail twenty hours' old and brought up at Aldrich's feet. The evidence given in the case was mainly circumstantial. The courtroom had been packed by farmers and witnesses throughout the Aldrich trial.

An Indiana Bug Story.

Shelbyville, Ind., Sept. 5.—An immense swarm of bugs resembling a cloud of smoke at least a mile long passed north of this city. The bugs were flying low along the pike, and when they met vehicles many of them alighted and nearly caused several runaways. The insects were black and about one and a half inches in length. The entire swarm disappeared as mysteriously as it had come.

Death Claims Another.

Jeffersonville, Ind., Sept. 5.—John Wesley Janaway, thirty-four years old, one of the five men scalded in the breaking of a hoisting apparatus at Speed's mill, is dead of his injuries. Janaway is the third to die of those injured in the accident. Frederick Baugh and Charles Swartz are both in a critical condition from scalds they sustained.

Steady Drive Did It.

Indianapolis, Sept. 5.—By a steady drive every foot of the way in the long 100-mile grind, Eddie Hearne of Chicago raced home winner over a big field of renowned speed kings in the free-for-all open event at the Indianapolis motor speedway Saturday afternoon, pulling down a cash reward of $1,000.

OHIO STATE FAIR IS GUARDED BY TROOPS

Full Regiment On Hand to Preserve Order.

Columbus, O., Sept. 5.—To protect visitors to the Ohio state fair, which opened today, the full Fifth regiment of the state militia is in Columbus. In addition to that part of the regiment brought ten days ago, the remainder of the regiment was ordered out by Governor Harmon to make good his assurance extended by proclamation that people could come to the fair with "perfect safety," guaranteed so far as interference by car strike sympathizers is concerned. Railway and Light company attorneys have threatened to cite for contempt of court the carmen's union because of the open distribution of handbills in Columbus and throughout the state requesting the public to "please not ride on the Columbus streetcars." The attorneys consider the circulars defy the restraining order handed down by Common Pleas Judge Dillon.

DEADLY STORM

Mining Section of Southeast Kansas Visited by Tornado.

Pittsburg, Kan., Sept. 5.—A tornado and cloudburst hit this mining section of southeast Kansas and did some damage to property between here and Joplin and Weir City and Scammon. No serious damage was done in Pittsburg, but at Weir City dwelling houses were blown down and scattered over the country and store fronts were blown in. One woman was killed and several injured there. The damage at Weir City is estimated at about $10,000. Buildings were blown down over at Scammon in Cherokee county, but no one was injured.

Interurban and railway traffic has been badly crippled because of washouts. The storm did much damage around Joplin and at Webb City and the Joplin mining district will be idle for some days because of the superstructure and buildings being lowered to the ground. Mrs. C. A. Houston was killed and all the family except her infant seriously injured when wind demolished their home near Carl Junction, eight miles northwest of Joplin.

Victim of Cyclone.

Galena, Kan., Sept. 5.—John Dobson, Confederate veteran, was instantly killed last night when the milling plant where he was employed as night watchman was wrecked by a tornado. In the destruction of many buildings several persons had narrow escapes. The damage is estimated at $50,000.

Illness Interrupts Trip.

Lexington, Ky., Sept. 5.—James R. Keene is ill at the Good Samaritan hospital. Mr. Keene came to Lexington Saturday night, en route to Castleton to take a look at his thoroughbred yearlings. He has not been at the farm in five years. The last time he was here he had quite a serious spell, being ill for several days. He had feared the trip might not agree with him, and did not feel as if his health would permit of it just now.

Charm of Sagamore Hill

Oyster Bay is, after all, not a noisy metropolis, writes H. J. Forman in the Review of Reviews. It has always been a smallish, drowsy village near Long Island Sound, without either accommodation or invitation for the stranger. Lately the town has acquired a new hotel and an opera house, but even these adjuncts have altered it but little, and to this day it lies grilling in the sun, very still and very silent. A number of New York families have summer residences here, but these are chiefly along the road that leads out from the village proper toward what is called the Cove. And from this road at right angles branches off a road that runs along the bay and leads on to Sagamore Hill and to some of its neighbors. To the house Mr. Roosevelt has had hewn a road of his own, steep and winding through a really noble bit of forest land.

Seventy of those 100 acres are covered with splendid oak and chestnut trees, birch, locust and hickory. The massive foliage and the abundance of underbrush make of this no mere tender grove with gravel footpaths, but a genuine piece of woodland that really brings nature to the owner's very door. Perhaps sixty yards before the house the road becomes an avenue of maple planted by Mr. Roosevelt himself twenty-five years ago. On the slopes about the house, where the trees are but few, there are merely green lawns and a tennis court without any attempts at elaborate exotic garden making. Beyond the house on the right as you approach lie the vegetable gardens, the farmland, the stables, lofts and granary, and more woodland. The house itself, externally at least, is merely a pleasant-looking, what Stevenson called, "flanging," wooden country house peculiarly American, with its long porches painted gray and with striped awnings. The house stands upon the highest point in Oyster Bay, yet so thick is the wood about it that no other houses can be seen from its porches and lawns. Altogether it is very simple and charming.

JACOB HIRGEL, Covington, Ind. Many persons who suffer constantly from chronic diseases, find great relief by the use of Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills, and after several years use, say that they have in no way injured them or created a habit.

Passing of the Poplar

The South Carolina poplar shade trees, that won affection of the people for a time because of their rapid growth, are as rapidly becoming pests and are to be assigned to oblivion. It has been found that their growth under grounds is as rapid and profuse and that they become a detriment in many ways. The roots will spread for quite a distance from the tree and will find a hole in the sewer pipe if it is no larger than a broom straw. The little roots will enter these small sand holes and are soon great masses of roots filling an ordinary sized drain tile in a short space of time. The people of Noblesville found their sewers failing to work and an investigation showed the tile full of roots from the South Carolina poplar trees. The City Council there, by ordinance, have forbidden the planting of new ones and ordered the old ones cut down within a period of five years, then giving opportunity to have other trees growing before the final termination of the poplars.

Keep It Out of the Paper

"Publicity is an educator, a purifier, a preventative of crime. It is the modern-day method of doing business. It is followed in all lines of dealing that enforce honesty," declared S. M. Greens, of the Charleston Herald-Patriot before the Southern Iowa Editorial Association, in session at Des Moines recently.

"Even at the time of weak old King John, of England, many of the people with authority held that it was nobody's business but their own how they ran the public business," said Mr. Greene in his paper. "Before he died King John learned better, and not many people with authority have tried his style since. They are getting more into the notion as the centuries ramble along of letting the public at least think it is getting reports of what they are doing with the public business.

"The story of the evolution of publicity of public affairs is a long one, full of bitter experiences and fraud and deception and murders and wars. But at last it is here, and yet in this day after six thousand years of human struggle to get the laws that we have today to keep the public officials in line with their duty, there are still some wise Solomons holding down city and county jobs who claim to believe that it is all unnecessary for the public to be informed as to what they are doing in the way of attending to the public's business.

"If there is any good reason why public employes should not report to their employers, I do not know it. Or, if there is any good reason why the newspaper is not the best means of giving those reports to the people, I do not know it.

"Why do private parties insist on deeds being recorded in real estate transactions?" he asked. "It is to make a man keep his word by announcing what he has done to the public. Why are banks required to publish reports in newspapers and to state and national officers representing the people? Why are even railroads now required to publish reports of their receipts, expenses and earnings by filing them with the people, represented by the state or nation? It is because publicity tends to better service and honesty in service.

"The public is a big institution and it has to depend upon reports from its many employes for its knowledge of how its business is being conducted, just as any big corporation has to depend upon reports from its employes as to the progress of its business. Any employe who would refuse to report as to what he is doing would be promptly dismissed or be put on the suspicion list."

IN SHADOW OF CROSS

Marvel of Art World to Be Shown at State Fair.

"In the Shadow of the Cross" is the title of an unexplained miracle picture of Christ that will be one of the chief novelties of the Indiana State Fair the week of September 12. This painting is one of the marvels of the art world and is owned by Dr. W. S. Wright, a millionaire philanthropist of Washington, who for thirteen years has been exhibiting it and giving the proceeds, amounting to thousands of dollars, to worthy charities. It was a feature of the exhibitions at St. Louis, Jamestown and Seattle and 4,000,000 people have seen it in the forty cities where it has been displayed. Its value is indicated by the insurance carried on it—$120,000, or $40,000 each for fire, accident or theft. It will be shown at the fair in a building especially erected for it.

The celebrated painting is the work of Henry Hammon Ahl, educated in the art centres of Europe. He returned to America, his native land, in 1896, opened a studio, and turned his attention to religious subjects. Among other works, he began painting a full length figure of Christ, his object being to produce an ideal portrait. At first he did not succeed in obtaining his ideal and the canvass stood, a source of vexation to him. But one day the artist was suddenly impressed, after more work had been done on it, with the realization that he had at last conceived the ideal sought after and he immediately painted the wonderful countenance of the Master now shown in the picture.

Not long after, the artist, having to go to his studio on an errand after night, was astonished to discover that his picture could be distinctly seen in the dark, and that Christ appeared to be walking in pale moonlight, while above and behind Him could be seen a cross. The artist's first impression was that the moon was shining through an open window upon the canvass, and that the cross was a shadow. He soon discovered that a strange phenomena had taken place in connection with his picture, and as he had only used commonly-known pigments, he soon realized that the strange quality of his picture was beyond his power to explain. He was so profoundly impressed that he refused to finish it, and the picture remains unfinished to this day.

After Dr. Wright purchased the canvass, the painting was taken to Washington where it was shown to many scientific men who acknowledged their inability to explain the phenomenon. It created a sensation among the clergy, who have preached more than three hundred sermons on it. Chemists declare that there is nothing known to chemistry that will cause the wonderful amount of luminosity that emanates from the painting.

It is expected to be of particular interest to religious people who see it at the state fair.

STATE FAIR PROGRAM

Big Exposition Will Overflow With Fine Attractions.

The State Fair, to be held the week of September 12, is going to be overflowing with choice features for visitors, and Monday, the first day, promises to be the best of the week, for on that day there will be a special race between the four greatest pacers in the world—Minor Heir, Hedgewood Boy, Lady Maud C and George Gano. On Monday, too, all of the special attractions will begin, including concerts by Weber's prize band of America, the Indianapolis Military and Indianapolis Newsboys' bands, the vaudeville and carnival shows open, and in the evening the horse shows and Pain's big spectacle "Battle in the Clouds" will be given. The crowds of visitors may grow as the week advances, but the quality of the fair will be practically the same throughout.

The school children and old soldiers will be admitted free on Tuesday.

The races are unusually promising and the purses are uncommonly rich. Some of the events closed back in the spring with heavy entry lists and many prominent horses will start. The racing program for the week follows: Monday—2:30 three-year old trot, purse $1,000; 2:25 three-year old pace, $1,000; 2:30 trot, $2,000; 2:07 pace, $1,000.

Tuesday—2:22 pace, $1,000; 2:19 trot, $1,000; 2:15 pace, $5,000; 2:09 trot, $1,000.

Wednesday—2:25 pace, $2,000; 2:20 trot, $5,000; 2:13 pace, $1,000; 2:16 trot, $1,000.

Thursday—2:09 pace, $2,500; 2:21 trot, $1,000; 2:18 pace, $1,000; 2:06 trot, $1,200.

Friday—2:12 trot, $2,500; 2:11 pace, $1,000; 2:24 trot, $1,000; free-for-all pace, $1,200. The races will start promptly at 1 p. m. each day.

The vaudeville given during the races will include the Belford family of acrobats, the four Busong brothers, head and hand balancers; Cordua and Maud, pedestal equilibrists and gymnast; Rondas and Booth, the smartest cyclists Europe has produced.

Herbert A. Kline's carnival shows, with a great variety of entertaining features, will make up the fair's "mid-way."

Bedroom Books

Frequently it happens, says a writer in the Boston Herald, that the only room upon which the mistress of the house can look as her very own is her chamber. No matter how commonplace the furniture may be, the chamber could be turned into a pleasant and inspiring place by turning one corner of it into a library.

Get a really comfortable arm chair. Select it not for its ornamental value nor for its intrinsic value nor for the reason that Aunt Eliza was very fond of it. Whatever its looks, select it for its qualities of solid comfort. Put it in library corner and put the bookcase in that corner, too, and fill the bookcase with the books you honestly enjoy, from Laura Jean Libby to Euripides.

When you, as lady of the house, retire to your room for the afternoon rest, spend some part of the time in sleeping, but spend the rest of it in reading. Don't lie down on the bed to read, for this is hard on the eyes. Have your library corner the best lighted one of the room, and if it hasn't a good strong light from outside don't have a library corner at all.

The most convenient bookcase is the one made specially for your room. If you are skillful with hammer and saw, you can fashion this yourself. But if your course in housekeeping did not include a branch in sloyd, any carpenter will make your bookcase for a small charge. Give him the measurements you wish, and he will put together a set of plain shelves. You yourself may paint or varnish them, cover each of them with a pretty cretonne, the colors of which harmonize with your wall paper and furnishings. Let the bottom shelf be about twelve inches from the floor. Leave fifteen inches between the first and second shelves, ten between the second and third, and eight between the third and fourth. The fourth shelf, which is the top, will be just the size for a vase of flowers set in front of a row of the pretty leather-bound books so popular today.

In order to avoid frequent dustings make very short curtains for the front of each shelf, only long enough to cover the tops of the books and keep the dirt from them. If the back and sides of the bookcase have been covered with cretonne, the curtains should be made of the same material and pattern. If the shelves have been stained—dark green or a warm, dark brown would be pretty—cretonne curtains may be used just the same. Leather curtains, however, are more easily dusted than those of cloth. The edges of the short curtains may be scalloped, and the scallops in the cloth curtains may be over-sewn with silk to prevent raveling and to give a pretty finish.

On the bottom shelf it is well to keep borrowed books and "untidy" books, the later being the paper-covered kind. Books from the library may be kept on the lower shelf also, and then you will know where they are when you want them. Because this shelf will not be very neat—paper-covered books are messy, no matter how carefully you stand or pile them—it is well to have a curtain covering the whole of this shelf. The woman who does not like the looks of a curtain may make a little flap door, stained or cretonne-covered to match the rest of the shelves. This door method for the lower shelf is really the neatest one. Doors might be made for all the other shelves, too, were it not for the fact that books are ornamental in any room if they are neatly arranged. Moreover, if the books were tightly shut up behind doors, unless the doors were of glass, they would seldom be read. The sight of them, like the sight of candy in the shops, often induce the observer to sample.

A good dictionary, a modern atlas and an encyclopedia should likewise be placed on the bottom shelf, so that the lady of the house may read her paper with intelligence. Have some good poetry on an upper shelf, and see that you dip into it often. Most of your bedroom books should be by standard authors, but a "trashy" novel, taken occasionally in very small quantities, is often refreshing through its downright idiosyncrasy.

THE REV. JAMES SMALL.

A Double Wedding

At the country home of William A. Macy, two miles north of Lewisville, Indiana, Thursday afternoon, occurred the marriage of his daughters, Florence O. Macy to Samuel Murray Parker of Carthage, Ind., and Reba Ann Macy to J. Howard Gluys, says the Richmond Palladium.

Promptly at four o'clock, Miss Nellie Hugel began playing the wedding march, "Lohengrin" by Wagner, the brides and grooms descended the beautifully decorated stairway and took their places before a bank of flowers and under a bower of beech leaves, facing over fifty guests who were present. The piano was played softly while the minister, Rev. Truman Kenworthy, performed the ceremony. Miss Florence Macy and Mr. Parker were married first, with Miss Reba Macy as bridesmaid, and Mr. Howard Gluys as best man. The couples then changed places, with Mrs. Parker acting as matron of honor and Mr. Parker as best man. The ring ceremony was used.

Dinner was then served on the lawn after which the bridal party left in an automobile for Richmond, and from there they went to Saginaw and Mackinac, Mich.

The brides wore linen dresses with elaborate drawn work. Their traveling costumes were of green cloth.

The decorations were in yellow and white, Earlham colors, profuse with golden rod.

Mr. and Mrs. Parker will reside on his farm west of Carthage. Mr. and Mrs. Gluys will reside in Richmond. Mr. Gluys is connected with the Municipal light plant of Richmond.

The guests from a distance were Mr. and Mrs. J. Marmaduke Gluys, Miss Mary Gluys, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Brown, Miss Ada Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Orville Brown of Charlottesville; Misses Miriam, Ruth, Esther, Frances and Gertrude Parker, daughters of Mr. Murray Parker, Mr. and Mrs. J. Oscar Parker, Mrs. Hannah Binford, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Johnson and daughter Marie of Carthage; Mr. Howard Parker of Murdo, S. D.; Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Cowgill of San Benito, Texas; Miss Nellie Hugel of Anderson; Miss Nina Greenwood of Raleigh.

Among the other guests present were Mr. and Mrs. Josiah Johnson and daughter Lucile, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Binford and two daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Binford, Mr. and Mrs. Gus Kinsinger, Misses Mildred and Celia Stubbs.

direct from the East, that have never been shown in the city. The first film will be Powers Greatest Picture "The Doctor's Love Story" The gist of the picture tells a very sad story of the doctor and his past, present and future. The second picture is an Imp, "The Doctor's Perfidy," a picture that will appeal to the hearts of all. On Tuesday night we will introduce for the first time in America the greatest comedy picture in years by the Imp Co. "Aunt Maria's Substitute," in connection with Mr. Beach who has different stories every night.

HICKS MAKES PREDICTION

Says That September Will Offer Varied Kinds of Weather.

September, usually the mildest month in the year, is going to be a corker, according to Parson Hicks of St. Louis, who makes long distance forecasts and actually hits it sometimes. According to the St. Louis man we will have a variation from July heat to December snowstorms, with October frosts sandwiched in to make it interesting.

Not Worth the Time

The man who says he knows all about advertising isn't worth listening to. And the man who is cock sure about even one phase of it is to be looked upon with suspicion. The man with experience will tell you, "It's funny, but you never can tell what will work." However, some advance toward a scientific basis for advertising has been realized. The future's work is to minimize the lost motion which practically every advertising campaign entails. Anyone can gain publicity for his business, but the science of it comes in doing the work at the least cost.

There is no disputing the proposition that the best way yet to advertise is to hitch your signature to the news that the American people read with so much avidity. The careful advertiser also has a mailing list with which to reach his customers. This doesn't pay, you say. How do you know? Just send a mail order house a 15-cent order and you will get their circular and catalogues the rest of your life. If a mailing list does not pay what fools these mail order people must be.

There are other methods of advertising, but they are often best adapted to a special field or special business.

Next to knowing what to do, it is well to know where to find out what to do. The man in your town who is giving the science of publicity more attention than you are is your newspaper man. If he is anything more than a 2 by 4 solicitor to fill space he can give you some good suggestions on the best methods for you to use. Ask him about it.

GOOSE GIRL

 By *****

HAROLD MacGRATH

Copyright, 1909, by the Bobbs-Merrill Company

The band was playing "Les Huguenots," and the girl hummed the air. A hand was put upon Grumbach's shoulder authoritatively. The police officer who had examined his passports that morning stood at Grumbach's elbow.

"Herr Grumbach," he said quietly, "his excellency the chancellor has directed me to bring you at once to the palace."

"To the palace?" Grumbach's face was expressive of great astonishment. "My passports were wrong in some respect?"

"Oh, no, herr. They were correct." Grumbach roused his mind energetically.

"But whatever can the chancellor want of me?"

"That is not my business. I was simply sent to find you. His excellency is always interested in German Americans."

"Shall we go at once?" asked Grumbach. "I never expected to enter the palace of the Grand Duke of Ehrenstein," Grumbach added. "It will be something to tell of when I go back to America."

"The palace is lighted up," was Grumbach's comment as the two passed the sentry outside the gates.

"The duke gives the dinner to the diplomatic corps tonight."

"A fine thing to be a diplomat."

"I myself prefer fighting in the open. Diplomats? Their very precious hides are never anywhere near the wars they bring about. No, no—this way. We go in at the side."

"You'll have to guide me. Yes, these diplomats. Men like you and me do all the work. I was in the civil war in America."

"That was a great fight," remarked the officer. "I should like to have been there."

"Four years—pretty long. Do you know Herr Carmichael?"

"The American consul? Oh, yes."

"He and I fought in the same regiment."

"Then you saw some pretty battles," Grumbach took off his hat. "See that?"

"Gott! That must have been an ugly one."

The somber black of Carmichael's evening dress stood out conspicuously among the blue and green and red uniforms at the grand duke's dinner. Etiquette compelled him to wear silk stockings, but that was the single concession on his part. He wore no orders.

The duke sat at the head of the table and her serene highness at the foot. And it was by the force of his brilliant wit that the princess did not hold in pettiness the court at her end of the table. For a German princess of that time she was highly accomplished. She was ardent, whimsical, with a flashing mentality which rounded out and perfected her physical loveliness. Above and beyond all this she had suffered; she had felt the pangs of poverty, the smart of unrecognized merit. She had been one of the people, and her sympathies would always be with them, for she knew what those about her only vaguely knew, the patience, the uncomplaining bravery, of the poor.

"Gentlemen," said the duke, rising and holding up his glass, "this night I give you a toast which I believe will be agreeable to all of you, especially to his excellency Baron von Steinbock of Jugendheit. What is past is past. A new regime begins this night." He paused. All eyes were focused upon him in wonder. Only Baron von Steinbock displayed no more than ordinary interest. "I give you," resumed the duke, "her serene highness and his majesty Frederick of Jugendheit!"

The princess grew delicately pale as the men and women sprang to their feet. Every hand swept toward her, holding a glass. She had surrendered that morning—not because she wished to be a queen, not because she cared to bring about an alliance between the two countries. No; it was because she was afraid and had burned the bridge behind her.

The tan thinned on Carmichael's face, but his hand was steady. She sat still in her chair, her lids drooped, but a proud lift to her chin. Beautiful to him beyond all dreams of beauty! God send another war and let him die in the heart of it, fighting!

In the ballroom the princess was surrounded. Everybody flattered her, congratulated her and complimented her.

Carmichael was among the last to approach her. By this time he had his voice and nerves under control.

"I thought you had forgotten me," she said. They walked to the conservatory.

"Forget your highness?" He bowed over her hand and brushed it with his lips, for she was almost royal now. "Your highness will be happy. It is written. You will be a great queen." "Who knows?" dreamily. "When I recall what I have gone through all this seems like an enchantment out of a fairy book and that I must soon wake up in my garden in Dresden."

If only it might be an enchantment, he thought—if only he might find her, as the grim old chancellor had found her, in a garret! What? Dreaming again. He shrugged.

"Why did you do that?" she asked quickly.

"It was a momentary dream I had, and the thought of its utter impossibility caused me to shrug."

"This dream—was there not a woman in it?"

"Oh, no; there was only an angel."

"You interest me; you always interest me. You have seen so many wonderful things. And now it is angels."

"Only one, your highness." This was daring. "But perhaps I am putting my foot where angels fear to tread," which was still more daring.

"Angels ought not to be afraid of anything." She laughed. There was a pain and a joy in the sound of it. She read his heart as one might read a written line.

"Dreams are always unfinished things," he said, getting back on safer ground.

"What is she like, this angel?" forcing him upon dangerous ground again willfully.

"I dare not tell you." His eyes

"YOU WILL BE A GREAT QUEEN," sought hers undilutedly. The chancellor and Baron von Steinbock came up.

"Your highness," began the benign voice of the chancellor, "the baron desires, in the name of his august master, to open the ball with you. Behold my fairy wand," gayly. "This night I have made you a queen."

"Can you make me happy also?" said she so low that only the chancellor heard her.

"I shall try. Ah, Herr Captain," with a friendly jerk of his head toward Carmichael, "will you do me the honor to join me in my cabinet a quarter of an hour hence?"

"I shall be there, your excellency," Carmichael was uneasy. He was not certain how much the chancellor had heard.

CHAPTER V. THE KING'S LETTER.

CARMICHAEL at once sought the chancellor's cabinet. To his surprise the room was already tenanted. Grumbach and a police officer!

"What's the trouble?" Carmichael inquired.

"Your excellency knows as much as I do," said the officer.

Occasionally Grumbach wiped his forehead. Then the chancellor came in. He bowed cordially and drew chairs about his desk. He placed Grumbach in the full glare of the lamp.

"Herr Grumbach," said the chancellor in a mild tone, "I should like to see your papers."

Grumbach laid them on the desk imperturbably. The chancellor struck

The kidneys need help.

They're overworked—can't get the poison filtered out of the blood.

They're getting worse every minute.

Will you help them?

Dean's Kidney Pills have brought thousands of kidney sufferers back from the verge of despair.

Will cure any form of kidney trouble.

Mrs. A. W. Jones, Raysville, near Knightstown, Ind., says: "In June, 1907, I publicly endorsed Doan's Kidney Pills and now after a lapse of three years I have no reason to alter my high opinion of them. I procured Doan's Kidney Pills and their use brought me prompt and lasting relief from lumbago and severe pains through my kidneys that had caused me great annoyance. I shall always take pleasure in telling of my experience with Doan's Kidney Pills."

the bell. His valet answered immediately.

"Send Breunner, the head gardener, at once."

The chancellor shot a piercing glance at Grumbach.

Breunner entered. He was, thin and partly bald.

"Breunner, her highness will need many flowers tomorrow. See to it that they are cut in the morning."

"It shall be done, excellency."

The chancellor turned to the pass-ports.

"There is only one question, Herr Grumbach. It says here that you were a native of Bavaria before going to America. How long ago did you leave Bavaria?"

"A good many years, your excellency."

"You have, of course, retained your Bavarian passport?"

Grumbach brought forth a bulky wallet.

"Here it is, your excellency."

The chancellor went over it carefully.

"Herr Captain, do you know this compatriot?"

"We fought side by side in the American war. I saw no irregularity in his papers."

"Then he is no stranger to you?"

"I do not say that. We were, however, in the same cavalry, only in different troops. Grumbach, you have your honorable discharge with you?"

Grumbach went into his wallet still again. This document the chancellor read with an interest foreign to the affair under his hand. Presently he laughed softly.

"I am sorry, Herr Grumbach. All this unnecessary trouble simply because of the word Bavaria. How long will you be making your visit?"

"Only a few days. Then I shall proceed to Bavaria."

"Your excellency has no further orders?" said the head gardener patiently.

"Good heaven, Breunner, I had forgotten all about you! There is nothing more. Herr Captain, you will return with me to the ballroom?"

"If your excellency will excuse me, no. I am tired. I shall return to the hotel with Herr Grumbach."

Carmichael and Grumbach crossed the Platz leisurely.

"How did you come by that Bavarian passport?" asked Carmichael abruptly.

"It is a forgery, my friend, but his excellency will never find that out."

"You have me all at sea. Why did he bring in the head gardener and leave him standing there all that while?"

"He had a sound purpose, but it fell. The head gardener did not recognize me."

About Our Health

Will the time ever come when arms will be punctured against a variety of disease, as they are now for protection against smallpox, asks a writer in the Boston Transcript. Inoculation against typhoid fever is surely making great headway. Our State Board of Health is already telling every hospital training school about it, and advising the nurses and physicians in the hospitals to take the preventive treatment. The board is also seriously considering whether it should not advise all the people of a place like Fitchburg, where something of an epidemic of typhoid has prevailed, to practice inoculation. One application is believed to be protective for two or three years, and people who feel that they are subjected to any peculiar risk of the disease, either from physical nearness to other cases, or by traveling in regions which are chronically infected, will in the future be advised to an increasing degree to take this method of securing immunity. The highly successful experience of the British and German armies forms the basis of the present movement here.

Indiana Charities

The cost of maintaining the charitable institutions of the State was $3,428,878.59 and the public charges numbered 90,406 according to a report for 1909 just issued by the board of State charities. There is approximately one public charge for every seven voters in the State. The enrollment of the State institutions and jails has doubled since 1800. The enrollment of poor asylums and orphans' homes and the number aided by township trustees have remained about constant.

Indiana according to the report, has taken first rank in progressive legislation directed toward the prevention of crime and the reformation of criminals. The indeterminate sentence law, a long step forward, was passed in 1897 and amended in

GOLD MEDAL FLOUR

GRAY HAIRS BANISHED.

The old idea of using sage for darkening the hair is again coming in vogue. Our grandmothers used to have dark, glossy hair at the age of seventy-five, while our mothers have white hair before they are fifty. Our grandmothers used to make a "sage tea" and apply it to their hair. The tea made their hair soft and glossy and gradually restored the natural color. One objection to using such a preparation was the trouble of making it, especially as it had to be made every two or three days on account of its souring quickly. This objection has been overcome and by asking almost any first-class druggist for Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur the public can get a superior preparation of sage, with the admixture of sulphur, another valuable remedy for hair and scalp troubles. Daily use of this preparation will not only quickly restore the color of the hair but will also stop the hair from falling out and make it grow. It is sold by all druggists for 50c. and $1.00 a bottle, or is sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

For sale and recommended by Hargrove & Mullin.

CONSERVATION IS THE THEME

Meeting At St. Paul Addressed By the President.

HIS FINAL VIEWS ON SUBJECT

President Taft's Address Before the Second Annual Conservation Congress Is Regarded as Being an Expression of His Forthcoming Recommendations to Congress Along This Important Line.

St. Paul, Sept. 5.—When Archbishop John Ireland stepped before 5,000 delegates and as many additional visitors in the St. Paul auditorium this morning to invoke divine blessing on the St. Paul assemblage and guidance to those chosen to spread the gospel of conservation, the second national conservation congress was opened.

The auditorium held one of the largest throngs ever gathered under one roof in the northwest when the prelate stepped forward. In it were President William Howard Taft, upon whom fell the duty of making the principal address of the day, and scores of other men, who, by reason of their activity in business, social, economic and educational development have become national figures.

Following the call to order by President Baker, Archbishop Ireland pronounced the invocation, which was followed by addresses of welcome by Governor A. E. Eberhart and Mayor Herbert P. Keller of St. Paul. Then came the address by President Taft. The president had prepared his speech with much care. He had devoted more pains and study to it than to any of his recent speeches, and it will stand as defining accurately and finally his position on the great subject of conservation. Mr. Taft recently canceled all of his speaking engagements in the west save this one. Colonel Roosevelt is to be in St. Paul tomorrow. The president visited the state fair at St. Paul this afternoon and will leave for Beverly this evening.

Following the president Senator Nelson of Minnesota spoke on the subject of public lands. A conference of governors was held at 2 o'clock, which was followed by addresses by several of the governors present.

There was no change announced in the program, other than the one made early last week, when it was given out that Senator Albert J. Beveridge of Indiana and Murdock Mackenzie of Colorado will change places on the program. Senator Beveridge, instead of speaking Tuesday, will make his address Wednesday, while Mr. Mackenzie is now scheduled to speak Thursday. James Wilson, secretary of agriculture, who will speak Wednesday, refused to discuss the congress.

Governor M. E. Hay of Washington will have opposition from one of his own appointees to his program for state's rights in connection with conservation. R. E. Ripley, delegate appointed by Governor Hay to represent the Tacoma chamber of commerce, is outspoken in his opposition to the plan.

"To give over to the individual states entire charge of the conservation of national resources," said Mr. Ripley, "would be the rankest kind of folly."

H. E. Hardner, president of the Louisiana state conservation commission, told of the method prevailing in Louisiana to foster the idea.

"Our state commission," said Mr. Hardner, "was organized in 1908. The state appropriates $100,000 annually to the association. This fund is raised by a license tax on minerals, gas, oil and timber. Our state is sending fifty delegates to the congress."

KILLED HIS WIFE

Kentuckian Uses Gun When He Finds Woman With Another Man.

Lexington, Ky., Sept. 5.—"I loved her so I could not give her up, and I am glad it is all over," said W. O. Vaughn, a bricklayer, of Louisville, in jail here, referring to the murder of his wife, Gertrude May, aged twenty-two, at 1:30 Sunday morning. Vaughn had followed his wife to Lexington and found her with another man. He crept up to a window and shot first at his wife's companion, Nick Ryan, a horseman, the bullet penetrating the calf of the leg. Before he could fire a second time both the man and woman ran and Vaughn followed his wife, who tried to escape from the house. He seized her about the waist as she was attempting to open a gate, and, holding her with his left hand, placed his revolver to her left side and fired, killing her instantly. Vaughn was married in Jeffersonville, Ind., to Gertrude May last April. She left him, she said, because he was cruel.

Got Out Just in Time.

Fairmount, Ind., Sept. 5.—A Big Four switch engine in setting a cut of cars gave them such great impetus that an empty box car failed to stop when it struck a bumper at the end of the line, jumped the tracks and crashed into a barber shop, pushing it into the street, then half buried itself in the west wall of the brick building occupied by the local electric plant. Two men in the barber shop saw the car approaching and escaped unharmed.

CAMPAIGN TEXT BOOK IGNORES INSURGENTS

But It Carries Strong Defense of Tariff Bill.

Washington, Sept. 5.—Insurgent Republicans are not recognized in the Republican text-book just issued by the Republican congressional committee. There are copious extracts from the speeches of Taft, Sherman, Representative McKinley of Illinois, Boutelle, Fordney, Hull, Tawney and Lundsager. But there is a notable absence of speeches made by Dooliver, Cummins, La Follette and Bristow. The campaign book opens with the full text of President Taft's letter to Chairman McKinley. There is a strong defense of the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill. The editor of the text-book says on this point:

"The Republican leaders will insist that a law which has changed a deficit of $58,000,000 into a surplus of $15,000,000; that has changed stagnation of business to unprecedented activity; that has given full employment to our wage-earners at the highest wages ever known, is a law to be unequivocally defended and a law that should remain unchanged until it is shown without doubt that a further revision would be of benefit to our labor and industries."

It is explained by some of the managers of the congressional committee that the issue of the text-book was delayed while waiting for Mr. Taft's keynote. Probably this accounts for the apparent divergence in tariff views between Mr. Taft, who, in his letter, advocates an early revision of the tariff by piecemeal, and the announcement of the campaign committee that they will insist that the tariff law have a fair test before any further revision is attempted.

THE COLONEL IS PUSHING ALONG

Now On Return Stage of Long Western Trip.

HE HAS COVERED MUCH GROUND

Principal Points in the West Have Been Touched, Thousands Having Heard Him at All Points, and Many Important Steps Are Scheduled on the Return Trip, Fargo Being Final Point of Great Circle.

Fargo, N. D., Sept. 5.—The streets of Fargo are all flossy with banners today and the folks are having a big Labor Day celebration. Colonel Roosevelt laid a couple of cornerstones, reviewed fire companies and made his main speech this afternoon.

Even on Sunday Roosevelt can't keep quiet. He could not resist the crowds that gathered at the stations along the line Sunday, and before nightfall he had spoken at least fifteen times. Which is probably as much talking as he has done on any one day in the course of the whole trip. The Roosevelt special slid over the rails through three states Sunday. From South Dakota it carried the colonel into Minnesota and from there into North Dakota. The word had gone forth that the big man would be passing by, for the railroad operators who got the tip over the wire flashed it on to the next station, and so it went. The result was that crowds awaited the train at every crossing.

Mr. Roosevelt preached sermons most of the day. At little towns that bear names like those you see on sleeping cars, he faced substantial crowds of folks wearing their black suits and white organdies. The village bands played hymns on their weird-sounding brass instruments. Flags were waved. The colonel met the Sunday school class and others who have outgrown Sunday schools.

There was the same enthusiasm even on Sunday that Mr. Roosevelt has discovered everywhere in the west. The sleeping-car towns, such as Cottonwood, Norcross, Prism, Colfax, Willmar and Benson, were very wide-awake. The towns of Minnesota with the front names like Marshall, Joseph, Morris, Russell, Florence, Doran, Sherman and Elizabeth, dumped their entire population as recorded in the last census, down to the station. Sometimes the train just slowed up, so as to give them a glimpse and make the day pleasant for them, but as a rule the train stopped and the colonel spoke.

He discussed mostly moral topics. He told his hearers to be honest, to be courageous, to be good, to be kind and to be patient and true. Politics was tabooed, but it was all right for Mr. Roosevelt to tell the westerners to stand by the law and help their fellow citizens conduct themselves properly, for Sunday above all days is the day for handing out a bit of a sermon. The corporations did not get a hand—the mob was silent, and the other subjects of the Roosevelt stock were on the shelf.

It was really not the colonel's fault that he spoke so frequently. How could he help it if the engineer stopped the train and the crowd hollered for him to come out and talk. When he got wound up he said a lot of things about the kiddies and the wives that gladdened the hearts of the fond parents who toted the youngsters around all day waiting for T. R.

No one town stood out as being especially conspicuous, but they all whooped just as loudly as they dared to on the Sabbath. They were not merely curious to see the colonel and to gaze upon him in action, but they wanted to hear him talk and tell how much they liked him.

In the thirteen days that Mr. Roosevelt has been on the road he has covered more than 3,800 miles. He has passed through fourteen states. He has addressed thousands of persons who have shown the friendliest regard for him. The last of the trip is at hand. Visits to St. Paul, Minneapolis, Milwaukee, Chicago, Cincinnati and Pittsburg will be of importance.

Governor R. B. Glenn of South Carolina will deliver a popular lecture on Friday afternoon. He has been on the chautauqua platform for several seasons and his work is of the highest order. He stands out pre-eminently as one of the best governors and former governors giving lectures today.

The Chicago Ladies Orchestra will come Friday afternoon for the remaining three days of the assembly. They will give a full concert on Friday evening. The ladies musical organization comes highly recommended to the local management as one of the best of the kind now appearing before chautauqua assemblies.

On Saturday afternoon the course lectures will be given and in the evening Battis, "The Dickens Man" will give the entertainment. He gives readings from the great novelist's works and also delineates many of the Dickens characters which have become famous.

The assembly will close with two lectures on Sunday by Madison C. Peters of New York City. He comes here with the reputation of being one of the greatest pulpit orators in the eastern metropolis and will compare favorably with the great Talmage.

USE FAIR WEEK TO ADVANTAGE

Eight Young Couples Were Granted Marriage Licenses in Clerk's Office in Few Days.

HOLDS RECORD FOR THE YEAR

So many young people took advantage of fair week to join themselves in wedlock that the clerk's office was a veritable hive for young married couples last week. County Clerk Norris predicted that the month would end up in a flash of glory, so far as the marriage records were concerned, because the business was rather dull the beginning of the month. His prediction was not wrong, for the greatest number of marriage licenses for any one week during the year were issued then.

The last couple to take the paper which gave them the right to marry was Myrtle Buchanan and Elmer Deament, who visited the clerk's office Saturday. Friday, Miss Laura McElfresh and John Mastin were granted a license as were also Miss Ruby Norris and Elmer Frasher. On Thursday, Miss Lillian Louise Hasy and Claude Johnson and Miss Fanny May Mann and William Porter Beale took out the necessary papers. Miss Eva M. Boling and Earl Henderson were granted a license and Monday, Miss Stella Owens and John William Inman took out a license.

BOOK OF POEMS PLACED ON SALE

"Sun-Ways of Song," by Alonzo Rice, Bard of Shelby County, is a Clever Piece of Work.

HAVE APPEARED ELSEWHERE

Birds have sung and so have poets, but few sweeter than Alonzo Rice, the bard of Shelby county, in his book of poems, "Sun-Ways of Song," which have been received here. The book is neatly bound in light blue and the arrangement of the leaves and of the poems is very artistic. The work contains most of the pieces of poetry which were ever written by Mr. Rice, notably where exquisite beauty is found, "The Dead Bee," "The Other Life," "Come go a Piece." The book is published by Sherman, French & Company and is now on the market at one dollar per copy.

The introduction, a short, but very clever tribute to the newly found poet is written by Charles Major, the well known Indiana novelist. The epilogue is a short piece of poetry, two ten-line verses, written by Frank L. Stanton. There seems to be no doubt that the work will meet with approval wherever opportunity is afforded to buy it. It contains poems which have appeared in the standard and best magazines in the United States and England.

DAILY COURT GRIND BEGINS

First Day of September Term Opens With the Usual Number of Suits Dismissed.

ONE DIVORCE GOES OVERBOARD

Number of Damage and Only One Criminal Case Are Taken off Docket.

The September term of the Rush circuit court convened this morning and the first day was as all first days of a new term of court are. Cases galore were dismissed and the daily grind for the clerk of the court, the judge and local attorneys is on once more. Only one criminal case was dismissed, while a long list of other suits were taken off the docket.

The suit of Eddie Cross against Judson Harmon, as receiver of the C. H. & D. railroad, for five hundred dollars damages, was dismissed at the defendant's costs by agreement.

The claim suit of T. C. Waltemire for $301 against Leonidas H. Mull, executor, was dismissed at the defendant's costs by agreement.

The petition of Joseph M. Eskew et al, for a drain was dismissed and the costs were paid.

The case of Judson Harmon, receiver of the C. H. & D. railroad, against Eddie Cross for five hundred dollars damages, was dismissed by agreement at the defendant's costs. In the suit for an injunction of Albert C. Kirkham against Chester D. Rhodes, trustee of Center township, the temporary injunction, which had earlier been granted, was made permanent.

The divorce proceedings of Laura Green against Summie Green were dismissed by the plaintiff at her costs. The suit of Aaron O. Hill against Alva A. Newsom on a note, demanding $180, was dismissed by the plaintiff at his costs.

The case of the State against Herschel Miller on surety of peace proceedings was dismissed, due to the fact that the prosecuting witness has died since the action was taken.

William P. Stanley et al filed attachment proceedings in the circuit court this afternoon against Oren Powell, demanding $325.

EVANGELIST TO GIVE LECTURE

The Rev. James Small Will Talk on "Love, Laughter and Tears" at Christian Church.

IS HERE TOMORROW NIGHT

Evangelist James Small, whose home for many years has been at Columbus, Ind., but now makes his headquarters at Kansas City, Mo., will lecture at the Main Street Christian church tomorrow night at eight o'clock on "Love, Laughter and Tears." Mr. Small held several special meetings in Rush county some time ago, one being at Milroy and another at Center church, both being very successful. He has led in evangelistic campaigns in almost every State of the union, and is recognized as a leader of men. The Tennessean of Nashville says: "Rev. Small is a natural born Irishman and has all the wit, pathos and eloquence of Erin's Isle." There will be no set charge for the lecture, but a free-will silver offering is expected at the door. A large crowd will be present.
